The four-story building next door on the north of the Ayer property, was badly damaged. It extends back seventy feet. Adjoining to it was a three-story brick structure, extending still further to the rear for about fifty feet. This extension was destroyed, and the damage is estimated to be $30,000.

The first floor was occupied by C. F. Wilder's cafe and wine-room, and E. L. Hyman's cigar store. Wildey had a fine group of oil paintings, among which were four large ones, valued at more than $50,000. Two of the large pictures were destroyed, and many of the small-er ones damaged by smoke and water. His less to cafe, stock and pictures, is $5000; E. L. Hyman, clgars, loses $5,000; A S. The Welles Building, 345 and 347 Broadway, across Leonard street from the Ayar Building, is said to have suntained the comment of the comment

There was a rousing fire at the northwest corner of Broadway and Leonard street this morning, causing a blaze that extended as high into the air as many of the tallest buildings of New York, and threatened for a time to lick up adjoining structures.

The fire was in the five-story Ayer Building at 349 Broadway, and while the brick walls stood there was a my that Chief Bonner's boys have been called upon to fight for a long time.

Yale & Thompson, dealers in underwear on the second floor have $5.000 loss; Lansdon, Batcheler & Co., lace curtains, $4.000; Thomas & Hooper, silk curtains, $5.000; and H. W. Crouse, buttons, $2.000

At the rear of the Ayer Building, where once was a fifteen-foot alley, stood a brick structure three stories tail. It was occupied by the Excelsior Sample Card Company. The stock was destroyed; damage, $20.000.

During the fire the Broadway cable road, below Houston street, was blocked for nearly two hours. Downtown cars went back from Houston street, and passengers had to get downtown from there, the best way they could. Many of them walked down to the fire and joined the immense crowd of people, who on their way to business and work, stopped to see the big blaze.

Broadway on cach side for three blocks with a solid mass of humanity, and when at one time the wind carried a lot of burning paper over the crowd in Broadway on the downtown cars above Leonard street, were switched to the uptown side. By this means passengers who had been delayed on that jart of the line below Leonard street were enabled to continue their journey uptown.

Mr. Sable jumped out of bed and rushed into the front room.

"What do you mean by coming into my house," he demanded of the 1 truder. "What do you want?"

"Mary, my darling, is that you? Light me to bed, that's a good woman. I'm nearly dead, I am." and the drunken man rushed towards Sable with outstretched arms, ready to embrace him. He struck a snag, however, for a stout fist shot out and landed equarely on his nose.

an instant, and reached the forward part of the building, where a lot of kegs containing liquors were stored, before the firemen arrived.

These furnished the fuel to send the fire through every floor and up through the roof. The passageway thus formed acted as a flue, and for twenty-five minutes the fire was so hot that the firemen could not get near enough to do effective work. In addition to that there was the danger that the walls would fall.

At 8 o'clock the crowd on Broadway heard a cry from the people gathered in Leonard street believ the burning building, and a moment later the Leonard street wall crashed into the street, earrying with it what was left of the burning floors.
